Nuclear Historian: Rick Carlson related the following continuing from last month:

On understanding Engineers

Example 3: You have to understand that there are many different types of engineers: nuclear, mechanical, electrical, civil, aero-space, automotive and train engineers. Let's examine a couple of the types: What is the difference between Mechanical Engineers and Civil Engineers? Mechanical Engineers built weapons – Civil Engineers built targets!

Example 4: Engineers think very highly of themselves! They believe a graduate with a Mechanical Engineering degree asks "How does it work?" A graduate with a science degree asks "Why does it work?" A graduate with an Arts (or Music) degree asks "Do you want fries with that?"

Example 5: Three engineering students were gathered together discussing which discipline designed the human body. One said "It must have been a Mechanical Engineer, Just look at all the joints!"

The next student said "No, it was an Electrical Engineer. The nervous system has many thousands of electrical connections."

"You're both wrong." said the third student. "It was a Civil Engineer. Who else would run a toxic waste pipeline through a recreational area?"

More stories of Engineers next month.
